Tomos mopeds are available in the UK for the first time in 30 years. The budget-priced motorbikes look much the same as they did when they were launched in 1954, and cost just £1,395.

Tomos is based in Koper, Slovenia, and its mopeds were originally produced under licence for Steyr-Daimler-Puch. It has since produced a range of motorcycles, outboard motors and, since 2004, parts for some BMW motorcycles.

The Tomos Classic XL moped has a 49cc two-stroke engine and a top speed of 28mph. It's available in three colours, from outlets throughout the country.
